State Building after Civil Wars:
The Role of the United Nations &
International Community*

Description

The recorded history of political violence, especially with regards to civil wars, reveals that civil wars have shaped the political hierarchy and guarded against territorial disintegration in some states, led to vulnerable sectarian settlements, or territorial disintegration in others. All civil wars have consistently however carried an unmistakable human cost of death and suffering in addition to wide range displacements of communities and destruction of vital infrastructure. This course will unpack the complexity of civil wars, its causes, why it persists, how civil wars end and what the reconciliation and rebuilding efforts entail. Our main case studies are Rwanda and the Lebanese civil wars, in addition to the Algerian, Iraq and Sudan civil wars.

Learning Objectives

- Understanding the evolution of theory on civil wars, revolutions, rebellion, ethnic and religious conflicts.
- Discussing the concept of prevention and the role of NGOs.
- Evaluating conceptions of authority, sovereignty, R2P, international intervention, and international law regarding government violence against citizenry.
- Understanding the pathways that lead to ending a civil war and the characteristics of peace settlements and transitional justice.
- Discussing state rebuilding and the role of the United Nations and the international community.

Academic Integrity

The consequences of scholastic dishonesty are very serious. Please review the Rutgers' academic integrity policy.

Academic integrity means, among other things:

- Develop and write all of your own assignments.
- Show in detail where the materials you use in your papers come from. Create citations whether you are paraphrasing authors or quoting them directly. Be sure always to show source and page number within the assignment and include a bibliography in the back.
- Do not fabricate information or citations in your work.
- Do not facilitate academic dishonesty for another student by allowing your own work to be submitted by others.

If you are in doubt about any issue related to plagiarism or scholastic dishonesty, please discuss it with your instructor.

All Rutgers students are expected to honor the following pledge, which is included in every assignment they are submitting in this course:

“On my honor, I have neither received nor given any unauthorized assistance on this assignment”.

Other sources of information to which you can refer include:

- Rutgers' Academic Integrity website
- Code of Student Conduct
- Eight Cardinal Rules of Academic Integrity

Turnitin

Students agree that by taking this course all required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to Turnitin.com (directly or via learning management system, i.e. Sakai, Blackboard, Canvas, Moodle) for the detection of plagiarism. All submitted papers will be included as source documents in the Turnitin.com reference database solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of such papers. Use of the Turnitin.com service is subject to the Usage Policy posted on the Turnitin.com site.

Students who do not agree should contact the course instructor immediately.

Accommodations for Accessibility

Requesting accommodations
Rutgers University welcomes students with disabilities into all of the University's educational programs. In order to receive consideration for reasonable accommodations, a student with a disability must contact the appropriate disability services office at the campus where you are officially enrolled, participate in an intake interview, and provide documentation. More information can be found in the Documentation Guidelines section of the Office for Disability Services website. If the documentation supports your request for reasonable accommodations, your campus's disability services office will provide you with a Letter of Accommodations. Please share this letter with your instructors and discuss the accommodations with them as early in your courses as possible. To begin this process, please complete the Registration Form on the Office for Disability Services website. Go to the Student section of the Office of Disability Services website for more information.
